

JOB SUCCESS

Once you have made the big transition through job searching and landed the job, the next goal is job success. There are specific skills you need to know and use to be successful at your job. It is important to practice these skills prior to starting the job. First impressions count from the start, and you only get one chance to make a good first impression.

Employers say people lose their jobs mostly because they do not use good work habits, rather than because they are not able to do the job.

What Employers Want

- A positive attitude is one of the most important factors in achieving job success. Do not carry negative feelings into your new workplace. Resolve them elsewhere.
- Always be on time. How long will it take to get to work? Allow a few extra minutes for traffic problems and getting children to daycare. Set an alarm clock to help you get up. Being reliable and dependable gains the trust and respect of your new employer.
- Good attendance and promptness are always important. Ask your supervisor in advance the proper method of informing them if you are going to be unavoidably late or out sick.
- Know and follow all office rules, policies, and procedures. Read the employee manuals.
- Listen and learn. Be open to new ways of doing things, even if you were taught differently in school or on a different job. Do not be quick to find fault, criticize, or complain until you can prove you can do something a better way.
- Meet and exceed your employer's expectations.
- Learn all you can about the job you were hired to do before thinking about moving up.

Communication

- When you need to talk with your supervisor, ask when a convenient time would be to meet.
- Take advantage of your performance reviews. Stay calm. Learn from them. Ask how you can improve. Show results or job-related classes you have taken. Most supervisors appreciate employees who are concerned about performance and in finding ways to improve. Your job success is also their success.
- Be a team player. Be willing to help. Know the goals of your job and how your job fits into the overall organization. Avoid a know-it-all attitude. Try to fit in with the team. Keep your sense of humor.
- Ask for help when you need it. If you make a mistake, let your supervisor know immediately. Find out how you can fix it.
- Follow the proper chain of command. Discuss items with your supervisor first.

Personal

- Prior to starting the job, have all of your appointments with doctors, dentists, etc. out of the way. Have your transportation and daycare lined up so you do not immediately have to take time off. Have an emergency plan for daycare and transportation.
- Be willing to learn new skills. Keep a record of classes you are taking that relate to the job. Review this with your supervisor at an appropriate time.
- Take time to make new friends. Find positive and upbeat co-workers. Avoid negative, critical and gossiping people.
- Be clean and well-groomed. Wear clean, appropriate clothes. Pay attention to how your co-workers are dressed. Avoid wearing strong perfumes or colognes.

- Keep your personal life and problems at home. Do not use the employer's equipment and time to do personal things like making personal phone calls, using the copy machine, or resolving your personal problems on the job. If you are having trouble resolving personal problems, counseling, support groups or employee assistance programs may be useful.
 - Create a successful image. Dress for the job you want next.
 - Be patient with yourself and your employer. It takes time to get used to, learn and like a new job.
- Volunteer for projects and committees if your work is completed and your supervisor approves.

Getting Along With Others

- Do not express your opinions, biases or prejudices about others while you are at work. Diversity is a priority in the workplace.
- Accept criticism as constructive. Do not become defensive or take criticism personally. Thank the person for their input. Consider changing if it is warranted. If you are unsure how to handle the situation, check with your supervisor.
- Always be friendly to everyone. Be willing to go the extra mile. This creates goodwill with employers, co-workers and customers.
- Notice who your boss relies on and model yourself after them.
- Find a mentor, someone who knows the company and the job well enough to coach you or show you the ropes.
- Realize playing politics or power games could be dangerous and backfire on you.
- Treat everyone with courtesy and respect. Remember, as you climb the career ladder, you may meet the same people on your way up the ladder.
- Keep your emotions under control. The job is not the place to express or show your opinions or feelings.
- Show appreciation. Let your supervisor know you appreciate their training, support, input, feedback, etc.
